In 2006, US Chess, moved its headquarters to Crossville, TN, after over 50 years based in New York state (first New York City and later Newburgh and New Windsor). The second decade of the 21st century has ushered in a new golden era for American chess. The Saint Louis Chess Club opened in the summer of 2008 and has hosted both the U.S. Championship and U.S. Women’s Championship for over a decade during which time both events have gotten increasingly stronger. It has also hosted the U.S. Junior and U.S. Girls Junior Chess Championship as well as the Sinquefield and Cairns Cups.
Five of the top players in the world—Fabiano Caruana, Wesley So, Hikaru Nakamura, Leinier Domínguez, and Sam Shankland—currently represent the United States. In 2016, the U.S. won the Open section of the Olympiad for the first time in 40 years. In 2018, Fabiano won the Candidates Tournament and became the first American to compete for a unified World Chess Championship since Bobby Fischer in 1972. As American players achieve these milestones, US Chess is currently approaching the 100,000 member mark.
